Waveland aldermen accept new police station bid

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen accepted a bid on a new police station Tuesday.

The bid, $35,900 from J.W. Puckett Construction of Gulfport, was the lowest of nine received and covers the cost and installation of a metal building.

The electrical and plumbing work bids, taken with the building bids at the board's Nov. 22 meeting, have been taken under advisement until work on the new station reaches the stage where those services are needed.

The station will be constructed next to Water Tower Plaza on U.S.-90.

In a related matter, the board accepted a bid for $3,420 from Roper Supply of Picayune for a police computer.

Bids for yearly maintenance as well as repairs for the city's water towers were opened Tuesday and were taken under advisement.

The board was scheduled to take bids on Urban Renewal Bonds but no bids were received. On the advice of city attorney Lucien Gex, the board adopted a resolution authorizing private negotiations for the sale of the bonds.

In other business, the aldermen heard from Delmer Wilcox, a representative of the Tri-State Rapid Rail Transit Commission. Wilcox asked the board to join other local officials in encouraging Mississippi to continue funding the Gulf Coast Limited, an Amtrak passenger train with a stop in Waveland.

The train, originally expected to run only until Oct. 15, has higher ridership than anticipated but can continue its Mobile, Ala., to New Orleans, La., run only until Jan. 6 without additional funds.

The other two commission members, Louisiana and Alabama, have already agreed to help support the train for another year.

The board also accepted a formal resolution expressing support for the continued funding of the train. The board also agreed to contact state officials about the matter.

The board also accepted a recommendation from the zoning board regarding a backyard variance for a Market Street lot.

The aldermen meet again on Dec. 10.

Hancock County voters turned out in large numbers and made their choices. This large turnout is an indication of the interest of voters in their government, and this is good. We believe that all citizens should be involved in the election process.

We also believe that there is at present a distinct difference between the Republican Party and the Democratic Party. We believe the Republican Party offers the best hope for government which efficient, yet economical; government which is alert to the changing times, yet wise in the execution of programs to meet those needs.

We believe in the right of a man to accrue something in life if he is willing to work harder than his neighbor, because we believe that this country was built on the principle of reward for individual initiative.

GCRL lecturer describes birds of the Gulf Coast

Mississippi, with its relatively narrow band of shoreline, can claim a surprisingly large variety of shorebirds, according to Gerald C. Corcoran, curator of the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory's J.L. Scott Marine Education Center.

Corcoran, who spoke on "Seabirds and Shorebirds" as part of the Laboratory's "Year of the Ocean" public seminar series, credits the wide assortment of birds observed in this area with the fact that the paths of most migratory birds cross directly over the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Corcoran devoted much of his lecture to an examination of endangered bird species. "Decline in numbers of most birds is directly attributable to man. At one time, flocks of passenger pigeons darkened the skies for hours, but the last of these birds died in 1918," he commented.

Harrison County is home of the largest least tern nesting colony in the world, according to Corcoran. At one time, this endangered species had dwindled to only 15 nesting pairs, but the Mississippi population has risen to about 1,500 pairs. "Now there are almost too many least terns in the designated nesting area," Corcoran explained, noting that the colony has expanded far beyond the protected range originally set aside. "I feel that enough beach space has been appropriated already for the least terns. The intention was to preserve an endangered species, and this has been done."

Least tern nests are little more than depressions in the sand containing two to four eggs. Corcoran pointed out that the chicks occur in two color phases, sand-colored and a darker color comparable to wet sand, which helps camouflage the chicks from predators in both sunny and rainy weather.

Another endangered species, the Mississippi sand hill crane, delayed interstate highway construction in Jackson County until the federal government established a refuge for the 25-30 birds, the only known representatives of this species in the world.

Corcoran noted that the whooping crane was once common along the Gulf Coast, but now Point Aransas, Tex. has the only flock in the world. He outlined efforts by National Wildlife Preserve officials in Maryland who are attempting to establish new flocks in other locations to prevent elimination of the whooping crane in case a disaster strikes the Point Aransas flock.

Another endangered species which is federally protected is the osprey, a spectacular bird seen over the mainland and barrier islands during summer months. Its common names include "fish eagle," "sea eagle," and "fish hawk."

The brown pelican is one of the most popular American birds, but Corcoran said that some Florida pelicans are suffering depredation because certain individuals think that the birds are endangering sport fishing by eating too many fish. These persons have retaliated by slitting the pelicans' pouches so the fish fall back out.

Corcoran pointed out that several species of birds which were nearly decimated by hunters in the early 1900's have staged a comeback in many areas along the shoreline of the Gulf of Mexico. One of these birds is the snowy egret, which was hunted for feathers to adorn ladies' hats.

One of the most fascinating shorebirds is the white ibis, said Corcoran. Whenever these birds fly in large flocks, they seem to appear and disappear like white clouds as they soar in perfect formation.

"The white ibis is a good example of how one animal can affect other animals and people, too," stated

Corcoran. After these birds were virtually wiped out in the Tampa, Fla. area in the 20's and 30's, the crab and mullet populations began to suffer. When the ibis became a protected species and began to make a comeback, bird droppings fertilized the water, resulting in increased crab and mullet resources.

The roseate spoonbill is another shorebird which was hunted extensively in the 20's and 30's, but has rebounded well along the Texas coast. However, only 18 breeding pairs now

Everyone benefits from local residents shopping-at-home

Christmas shopping represents the largest merchandizing season of the year for local merchants.

In recent years Hancock County has had a tremendous growth in shopping centers in addition to many individual stores.

A resident can purchase just about anything needed as a gift for individuals, for a home or for themselves from merchants located at home in Hancock County.

When purchases are made at home, the dollar turns over many times.

Your neighbor who owns the business, or is employed by the business, no matter how large or small, benefits from the purchase.

Local governmental agencies benefit from the sales taxes which enable provision of many services.

Another advantage to shopping at home is the friendly courteous service offered by the clerks who in many instances know you.

So, when Christmas shopping, think of shopping at home first.

Lott reelected whip for 99th Congress

Fifth District Congressman Trent Lott was unanimously re-elected by his Republican colleagues in the House of Representatives to serve in the 99th Congress as Republican whip, the party's second ranking leadership post in that body.

The election marks the third consecutive Congress as whip for the 43-year-old Pascagoula, and his fourth consecutive Congress as a member of the House leadership.

The Republican whip serves to inform members of Congress of the legislative agenda, ascertain members' stances on issues prior to their consideration and to work with members and the administration to forge coalitions on major votes.

"I'm honored by the confidence my colleagues have continued to show in me by my re-election as whip," said Lott, who is the only member of Congress from a Southern state to be elected Republican Whip since the office was created in 1897.

"I look forward to this opportunity to work with this leadership in the Congress as we seek to keep our country moving by encouraging economic growth and maintaining a strong, national defense. The problems of our country be solved by working together and seeking positive ideas for solutions."

Lott was re-elected by acclamation Monday morning by a caucus of the House Republican Conference after being nominated by Congressman Ralph Regula, R-Ohio, and Congressman Dave Martin, R-N.Y.

Regula and Martin cited Lott's Whip organization as reflecting his preference for individual contact with other members and his sensitivity to their individual needs.

Senate committees draft recommendations on health care, workmen's compensation

Lt. Gov. Brad Dye said that the special Senate study committees on health care and workers' compensation have developed some concrete recommendations for consideration by the Senate in the 1985 Session which begins Jan. 8.

"These committees have spent numerous hours hearing testimony in public hearings and studying statistics provided by state and private agencies. I commend them for producing results which will be most helpful to the Senate in their deliberations in the coming session. I would also like to thank the public for its cooperation in the hearing which provided the senators with several points of view to consider," Dye said.

"The Health Care Committee developed nine recommendations. The major thrust of the committee was to come up with proposals to make health care more cost effective," the lieutenant governor explained.

Some of the recommendations put forth by the Health Committee include:

- streamlining of the health care facility Certificate of Need program which requires the state to approve any major capital expenditure by a health care facility.
- continuation of the moratorium on the construction or expansion of nursing homes and home health agencies but allow for small nursing homes to expand to up to 60 beds.
- placement of the administration of the state's three charity hospitals under the State Board of Health.
- continuation of the regional mental health/retardation center concept with the responsibility for contract management, monitoring, quality assurance and mental health/retardation service coordination under the State Department of Mental Health.
- creation of a Division of Professional Licensure under the State Board of Health which would provide each licensure board's executive director with fiscal, clerical and investigatory support.

- placement of the management and control of the Mississippi Children's Rehabilitation Center under the University Hospital.

"Workers' Compensation is always a volatile issue in the Senate with nearly every bill sparking a floor debate. The purpose of the study committee was to develop recommendations to work toward an ideal system that gives the greatest benefits to the workers at the lowest cost to the employers," Dye said.

Some of the preliminary recommendations of the Workers' Compensation Study Committee include:

- provide a system of recourse for workers who believe they were fired because the filed a Workers' Compensation claim.
- increase the amount which can be spent on vocational rehabilitation to $5,000.
- allow lifetime benefits to totally disabled paraplegics, quadriplegics and persons totally disabled due to brain damage.

—create a medical advisory board to adopt guidelines in regard to a cost containment program for medical fees.

- eliminate the probability of remarriage discount in lump sum settlement for death benefits to a widow.

—base the assessment for support of the Workers' Compensation Law administration on premiums collected by insurance carriers, and, in the case of self-insurers, premiums they would have to pay if they purchased insurance.

—request a study on the financial implications of future indexing of benefits and deregulation of compensation insurance rates.

—require an employer or insurer to share in the costs of collection in successful suits by injured employees against third parties. The committee emphasized that the various members are divided on this recommendation.

—increase 25 percent the number of weeks of compensation allowed for loss of a scheduled member.

City taxpayers face financial double jeopardy from jail charges

December 4, 1984
Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

The recent controversy in Harrison County increasing the per prisoner daily rate for city prisoners to $12 brings to light an important issue—"double taxation."

This type issue is facing our county and cities right now. City taxpayers pay more than their fair share to build, operate and maintain the county jail, but are charged $3.50 per prisoner daily rate. One wonders if the new jail will require an increase. City residents pay extra for the police and judicial system, less fines, to bring them to jail.

The next logical step would be to charge city residents to use the courthouse and county roads and yes, vice-versa, charge county residents to use city roads. Ridiculous!

City taxpayers, wake up! Turn the keys of our cities over to the county fathers and stop paying twice for police, roads, bridges, jails, etc., and form a fire protection district which is about the only service not paid for twice.

Admitted, the county drops a few crumbs from the table to the cities, but really, "ain't we dumb."

Sincerely,
Nicholas M. Haas

Holiday hospital patients merit special attention

As families and friends gather to toast the Christmas holidays, more than 600,000 Americans will spend the season in a hospital bed.

According to Beth Rolfs, director of public relations at Garden Park Community Hospital in Gulfport, hospitalization during the holidays is hardest for elderly patients.

"Children don't seem to be affected as much as adults, who tend to reminisce about fond memories of past holidays."

"That's why visitors and hospital staff play an important role for patients hospitalized during holidays," she says.

"When patients walk through a hospital door they not only are gripped with fear, they're also isolated from their normal routines. Anything we can do to make them feel like guests in our home and return some of their routine, helps alleviate depression."

"Visitors can be the sounding board that so many patients need," she says, "above all, visitors need to be sensitive to the emotions a patient is experiencing."

When walking into a hospital room, visitors should assess a patient's mental outlook before starting conversation. Turning on the television or asking a lot of questions may be inappropriate behavior. Sometimes it's best for a visitor to quietly take a seat. Too often patients feel obligated to entertain a visitor."

Let patients control the visit and the choice of conversation topics, Rolfs emphasizes.

"If a patient wants to talk about his medical condition, let him. Cutting off a patient with the classic line, 'Don't worry, everything will be all right,' smacks of insincerity and patients won't buy it," says Rolfs. "Don't deny a patient the right to talk about what's troubling him."

While it's sometimes healthy for a patient to talk about his medical condition, Rolfs frowns on visitors giving free medical advice. "This will only cast doubts and increase anxieties in the patient's mind. Now is not the time to question a patient's choice of a hospital or doctor."

On the other hand, if a patient asks a visitor a question about his medical condition or voices a complaint about his care, the visitors can serve as a liaison with the hospital staff. "When you don't know the answer to a patient's question, admit it, but tell the patient you will find out. This is reassuring and provides a useful service."

"Patients should be told about ongoing holiday activities at home," says Rolfs, "patients need to know they're still a part of the home environment. Otherwise, when it's time to go home, a patient may feel out of touch."

If you're looking for a holiday gift to cheer a patient, Rolfs suggests thinking creatively. "Rather than bringing baked goods to the hospital, take some to the family's home."

Other ideas: address Christmas cards for a patient or offer to shop and wrap presents.

"Services like these are truly appreciated because they take pressure off patients and families trying to keep up with holiday traditions."

Before lugging a Christmas tree and lights to a patient's room, find out first about a hospital's fire regulations. In most cases, only specially treated nonflammable decorations are permitted.

Additional recommendations for year round hospital visiting include:

- Plan visits; don't make them spontaneous. Let the patient set the day and time. Give a patient the freedom to tell you if it's not a good day to visit.
- Don't smoke in a patient's room.
- Don't bring a patient's food. Many patients are on special diets.
- Observe hospital policies governing visitation.

Remember family or friends with Special Occasion, Get Well or Memorial cards.

Cochran named secretary of Senate GOP Conference

U.S. Senator Thad Cochran will serve in a key leadership position in the upcoming 99th Congress.

Cochran, who will be serving his second six-year term when the Congress convenes Jan. 3, was elected secretary of the Senate Republican Conference, one of six leadership positions filled by the Senate majority at a caucus at the Capitol on Nov. 28.

"I am honored by the trust and confidence shown by my colleagues," Cochran commented following his victory in the caucus vote.

Cochran and others in the Senate majority leadership met the next morning at the White House with the President and chief advisers.

The upcoming session of the 99th Congress, as well as issues facing the nation, the administration and Congress were topics of discussion.

The Mississippi Senator won election in the caucus by the biggest margin, 52-21, of any of the contested races among the 53 Republican Senators who make up the majority in the U.S. Senate.

Others chosen in the caucus voting were Senator Robert Dole of Kansas, Senate majority leader; Senator Alan Simpson of Wyoming, assistant majority leader, or whip; Senator Bill Armstrong of Colorado, Republican Policy Committee chairman; and Senator John Heinz of Pennsylvania, chairman of the National Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee.

South Carolina Senator Strom Thurmond will continue serving as the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, as the senior member of the majority party, and Vice President George Bush, re-elected for four more years, will continue as the president of the U.S. Senate.

Supervisors back continued funding for Coast Limited

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has been asked for its assistance in encouraging the state to continue funding Amtrak's Gulf Coast Limited passenger train.

Delmer Wilcox of Waveland, a Mississippi representative to the Tri-State Rapid Rail Transit Commission, made the request at the board's Monday meeting.

Wilcox reported that state officials appear unlikely to continue to fund the passenger train, which makes a stop in Waveland on its run from Mobile, Ala., to New Orleans, La.

He asked the board to write letters to legislators to ask their support for continued funding.

The other two commission member-states, Alabama and Louisiana, have already agreed to furnish two-thirds of the necessary money, he added. Mississippi's share of the funding for another year would be $312,000.

The train can be operated only until Jan. 6 on available funding.

The passenger run was originally designed to provide transportation to New Orleans for the 1984 World's Fair and was funded by the commission through Sept. 15. The fair closed last month but the train continued to operate because the ridership was higher than anticipated.

Wilcox said about 300 riders per day used the train during the fair, although only 78 per day were needed for Amtrak to break even on the run.

He said he is not sure exactly how many riders per day the train averages now, but a count taken last Thursday included over 200 passengers for that particular day.

"If we lose this one, it's not likely that we'll ever see another passenger train in this area," Wilcox commented, explaining that he sees the continued high ridership to be an indication the train is needed.

He said commission representatives will inspect the train on Jan. 4 and may consider putting the Gulf Coast Limited on an Ocean Springs-to-New Orleans commuter run with stops in most Gulf Coast communities if funding can be obtained.

The train's present schedule places departures too late and returns too early for commuter use. In addition, Wilcox said federal regulations prohibit Amtrak from starting commuter lines but said the commission is allowed to do so.

The board formally adopted a motion saying they support continuing the Gulf Coast Limited funding and plans to contact local legislators about the matter.

Partial funding obtained for marina

The Pearl River River Basin Development District has agreed to provide some of the needed funding for a proposed marina at Pearl-rington.

The marina is expected to cost about $12,000 and will include three piers and a boat ramp and is to be constructed on the East Pearl River in Beat Two.

The District has allocated $8,300 for the project, which has already been approved by Bureau of Marine Resources and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Originally, Beat Two Supervisor A.A. "Dolph" Keller had planned to use district road and bridge funds for the marina. However, plans had to be shelved temporarily after State Auditor Ray Mahus met with county officials in October and told Keller that road and bridge funds could probably not be used for recreational facilities.

Keller is still waiting for further word from the auditor's office on whether road and bridge funds can be used to make up the remainder of the cost, but has proceeded with plans for the project by asking the board to hire Harry Smith to survey the area for the proposed marina.

The board approved hiring Smith at last Thursday's meeting.

TENSE NECK MUSCLES

Tense neck muscles brought this patient to our clinic with a curious array of painful symptoms. The neck muscles were stiff and painful upon movement causing the top of his head to hurt and an elevated blood pressure. Conditions of this nature are caused for the most part by displaced vertebrae which irritate delicate nerve fibers. The response is excellent under Chiropractic care. A spinal analysis and x-rays gave evidence of spinal bone alignment and scientific application of Chiropractic adjustments brought quick relief, and in time, correction to this person! He now is always sending his friends who get in the same fix to us so that we may fix them up.

What do you do when payday's in a week, but that TV's on sale today?

Just take out your checkbook and write yourself a loan, with HandyLine.

It's easy. There are no special checks to use. No credit cards. No identification cards. You just write a regular Hancock Bank check for what you need. And we'll cover it.

For any purchase. For any amount, up to your pre-approved credit limit.

With HandyLine, you don't have to come in to the bank to get a loan. You just write a regular check, and you've got a loan at Hancock Bank.

HandyLine helps you in 5 ways.

How you use your HandyLine of credit is up to you:

1. Use it as a short-term loan: to advance yourself some money before payday.
2. Use it for longer-term loans: to make a major purchase and then pay it off in monthly installments.

3. Use it in emergencies: as a cash reserve for unexpected car repairs, medical bills — whenever you need cash in a hurry.

4. Use it as overdraft protection: it automatically covers all overdrafts and keeps you from ever having to pay overdraft penalties again.

5. Use it to consolidate your bills: go on and pay all your creditors. Then, instead of a lot of bills coming in all through the month, you'll receive a single HandyLine bill in your monthly bank statement.

Be your own loan officer.

Once you're approved for HandyLine, and your line of credit is established, you take charge.

You decide how much to borrow. Without having to answer any questions. Or fill out any forms.

You never even have to come in to the bank, if you don't want to. You can handle all of your HandyLine matters by mail.

You decide when to pay your money back. All we require is that you pay at least 1/20 of your total balance each month.

No annual fee to pay.

There's no yearly or monthly charge to have HandyLine. The only money you pay is the monthly interest on your unpaid balance.

And there's no time limit on using the money, either. You can let it sit there for years if you like, and it'll cost you absolutely nothing.

It's good just knowing that money's there if you ever need it.

Also available: Secured HandyLines for loans up to $25,000.

Regular "unsecured" HandyLines are available with credit limits of up to $5,000.

But you can also have a much larger limit — up to $25,000 — with HandyLine's secured line of credit.

This type of HandyLine is secured by the equity in your home, a certificate of deposit, or by some other type of collateral.

It's great for individuals and small businesses who want to buy equipment, make home improvements, or take advantage of investment opportunities.

Get your money in cash 24 hours a day.

You can use any of our 12 HandyBanks to get your HandyLine money in cash 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

And using the HandyBank, you can also make payments to your HandyLine account, or even check the balance available to you on your HandyLine of credit.

Call to get your application.

Applying for HandyLine couldn't be easier. Our simple 1-page application is just 7 1/2 inches long and takes a matter of minutes to complete.

Return it by mail and we'll get back to you right away, with information on your own personal HandyLine of credit.

Call us at your nearest branch of Hancock Bank and we'll put a HandyLine application in the mail to you today.

Birds

nest in Florida, where the bird was once populous.

Only three species of skimmer are found in the entire world and one species, the black skimmer, is found on the Gulf Coast. The black skimmer is increasing in number and tends to occupy the same nesting areas as the least tern.

Corcoran mentioned that the black skimmer is the only bird in the world with a longer lower than upper bill. The birds are called skimmers because of their fishing methods. They make two passes to catch their prey—one to leave a wake to draw curious fish to the top of the water and a second one to "skim" the fish from the surface.

The laughing gull is one of the most familiar birds to Mississippi coastal residents. Corcoran recalled that years ago when Gulf waters extended up to the seawall, these birds were notorious for flying over the seawall to drop oysters and crack them open to obtain food, unmindful of the motorists on the narrow, black-topped road below. Increased traffic and the wide sandy beach now separating the water from the highway have virtually eliminated his hazard.

One bird which spends only a short time in the coastal Mississippi area is the gannet, which is usually sighted over open waters. Corcoran noted that it is disconcerting to see this bird fly because it is difficult to tell if the birds is coming or going because of its pointed head and tail. The gannet dives at fish from heights of up to 100 feet and can penetrate the water to 50-foot depths.

The purple gallinule is one of the most colorful shorebirds with a brilliant red bill and a blue satin-like spot on the front of its head. Primarily a freshwater bird, it is often found in salt marshes where its large feet help it to walk across lily pads while giving the appearance of walking on water.

Several types of plovers inhabit the coastal zone, including the snowy plover, a tiny dark gray shorebird. Another plover less dependent on the marine environment for its livelihood is the killdeer, named in imitation of its call. The killdeer is primarily an insect eater which breeds away from the beach.

One of the tamest shorebirds is the dowitcher, which uses its long bill to probe in the sand for shellfish and worms. Corcoran noted that the dowitcher is often accompanied by the red knot, sometimes called a swamp robin because its entire breast turn bright red in the spring.

The tiny sandpiper is one of the most amusing birds to watch, said Corcoran, because it will dart back and forth in front of the waves in a constant effort to keep its feet dry as it probes in the sand for crustaceans.

The storm bird is usually seen over the mainland directly preceding severe weather disturbances. This bird is often referred to as the man-of-war bird or frigate bird because it is a "pirate," a lazy bird that steals from seagulls and terns.

Cattle egrets, noted Corcoran, were given their name because they follow closely behind cattle and tractors which kick up insects for them to eat. These birds are not exclusively shorebirds, but often appear right along the coast as well as far into the interior. These birds have slowly migrated north from South American and can now be found as far north as Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey.

One of the best fishermen in the bird kingdom is the American egret. This rather large bird runs back and forth in the water flapping its outspread wings to confuse the fish, and then reaches down to spear his prey while the fish are still disoriented.

Corcoran concluded his lecture by describing the variety of wintering species often sighted along the Mississippi Coast, including the Canada goose and an assortment of ducks, including the mallard, wood, redhead and lesser scaup.

Bell expanding information available

Did you ever need to mail a quick letter to someone only to find you didn't have the zip code? Or maybe you've found a note at home with what seemed to be an important telephone number, but you couldn't remember whose it was?

With South Central Bell's expanded Directory Assistance service, these and similar situations will be problems of the past. Effective Nov. 15, Directory Assistance operators began giving customers directory addresses, zip codes and names when customers gave the operators a telephone number.

A charge of 30 cents applies for each call, and customers can request two listings on each call.

A caller can dial 1-411 locally or 1-555-1212 for long distance and give the operator a Mississippi telephone number, and the operator will provide the directory address, including the zip code and the name of the customer at that number," explained J.N. McGowen, vice president in charge of South Central Bell's Mississippi operations.

"Of course this address and name information is not available about customers who have non-published telephone numbers that are excluded from both the telephone directory and Directory Assistance records,"

McGowen explained.

He added that address and name information for other customers will be excluded upon request by calling either the Residence Service Center or Business Service Center.

The telephone company expects the address service to be widely used by business and a reliable, fast way to get information.

Zip code, directory address, and telephone number information is available through Directory Assistance 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

A SIMPLE LESSON IN ECONOMICS FOR ANYONE WHO BELIEVES ADVERTISING RAISES PRICES.

1965 calculator - Over $2000.00

1984 calculator - Under $10.00

In the beginning there was the calculator. It was a new idea. It had never been advertised. And it cost a fortune.

Then the people who sold calculators started to advertise them. That was hardly a new idea. But it, too, cost a fortune.

Now, you might think all that expensive advertising would drive the price of a calculator to incalculable heights.

But no. What happened was exactly the opposite.

It doesn't make sense. How can something as costly as advertising end up saving you money?

It's really quite simple. Advertising spreads news. When it spread the news of the calculator, people started to buy.

As more calculators were sold, more were produced. As more were produced, the cost of producing them came down. And because advertising creates competition, their quality and sophistication went up.

So today, using an electronic calculator is almost cheaper than counting on your fingers. And advertising helped make it happen — just as it has for countless other products.

In fact, with a little effort you could probably figure out precisely how much money advertising has saved you over the years.

But don't try it without a calculator.

ADVERTISING.

Clermont to protest rate increase

BY DENA BIENETTE
A group of Clermont Harbor citizens plans to protest a rate increase proposed by Clermont Harbor Waterworks.

Clermont Harbor Civic Association President Mary Caillier said Monday that the association and its Ad Hoc Committee for a Sane Water Policy is prepared to send representatives to Jackson for a Public Service Commission hearing on the rate increase.

The Public Service Commission set its December docket Tuesday and notified Caillier that the Clermont Harbor matter had been continued until the commission's January docket.

Peter LaStelle, coordinator of the committee, said he hopes protesting the rate increase will help the citizens of Clermont Harbor get better water service from the firm, which is owned by Glenn Johnson of Johnson Utilities Inc. in Vicksburg. "Our objective is not to oppose Johnson, but rather to help him. We would like to help Clermont Harbor Waterworks improve its service, but not at the expense of consumers," LaStelle explained.

LaStelle said that the committee was formed last year after the Clermont Harbor Waterworks asked the Public Service Commission to allow a rate increase.

Although that increase was denied, the residents of Clermont Harbor decided to document the day-to-day differences in the quality of service they get from the company because inadequate and inconsistent service have become major complaints.

"We're keeping specific records on when the service was interrupted, how long it was out and what its quality was after it was restored. We've learned several things we have passed on to the Public Service Commission and the Board of Health," LaStelle said.

For example, pressure in water lines is checked daily to see if it meets the 20 pounds per square inch (psi) standard set by the Board of Health. According to LaStelle, the pressure averages 20 to 24 psi during the day, a period of low demand.

However, LaStelle alleges that pressure has fallen as low as 8 psi and does not meet standards during peak demand hours, he said.

He and other members of the committee have also documented cases of people receiving water that was allegedly contaminated by sand or mud, which LaStelle says indicates problems with an old pipeline system.

He said no bacterial contamination of the system has been discovered. However, the committee alleges that in 1983 the Mississippi Board of Health ordered Johnson to make no further connections to the system in order to avoid possible contamination.

The committee also alleges that Johnson has received two rate increases since purchasing the Clermont Harbor Waterworks in 1981.

Customers of the waterworks have also reported instances when service was allegedly cut off without warning and kept off for several hours before being turned back on. "I don't know if the Public Service Commission realizes it or not, but there is no permanent resident maintenance person over here. If we have a problem we have to call a toll-free number in Vicksburg and wait until they can send a crew from Ocean Springs," Caillier said.

"There will be no prepayment for improvements even if we have to take this matter to court," LaStelle said.

If necessary, he said the citizens of Clermont Harbor will present a counter-proposal to the Public Service Commission requesting a cut in present rates and the appointment of a conservator until improvements on the system have been completed.

In other business, the board met with Malcolm Tullier of the Shoreline Park Civic Association who requested a progress report on a plan to inspect for septic tank violations in the county.

The wastewater district is cooperating with the county board of supervisors on the project. According to district board chairman John Longo Jr., County Building Inspector Donn Murray will conduct the inspections and the district will analyze the results of any tests taken during those inspections.

Longo said the district and the county supervisors are still working on cost estimates for the project. The estimates should be available for the district's January meeting.

At that meeting, the district will also handle the next step of the project by passing an ordinance adopting State Board of Health regulations as a local septic tank ordinance, he added.

Universal Mini-Warehouses celebrating 10th anniversary

Universal Mini Warehouse of Waveland is celebrating its 10th anniversary with a year-long promotion in which a $50 cash prize will be awarded to one of the firms tenants each month.

Charles Johnson, Universal president, said the first award for December has been made to the occupant of Compartment 201.

A grand prize of a trip for two to Hawaii or $1,000 will be presented in November, 1985, Johnson added.

"Every first Monday through next October we will draw a number for the $50 cash prize," Johnson explained.

Winners must have been a Universal tenant for at least two months prior to the drawing with all rent due paid. No names will be advertised without the winner's permission, Johnson pointed out.

He noted the mini-warehouse industry has a general policy of confidentiality regarding tenants.

"We are proud of our record of service for the past ten years since we opened in November, 1975, and through this promotion we hope to thank all of our past and present tenants for the patronage they have given us," Johnson stated.

Universal's mini-warehouses are located at 648 US-90 East, Waveland.

Coastal permit acquisition simplified

BY DENA BISNETTE

Bureau of Marine Resources is now the only agency applicants must contact if they want Mississippi Regional Permits for small waterfront construction projects.

At a press conference Tuesday at BMR's offices on the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Park Regional Campus, BMR Director Richard Leard explained that applicants no longer have to apply to both BMR and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in the Corps' Mobile, Ala., District.

Most of Hancock County is in the Mobile District, Leard said, except the western part of the county above Pearllington. That area is in the Vicksburg District and BMR is currently trying to arrange a one-stop permitting procedure there as well.

Under the new procedure, BMR accepts applications for permits to construct small waterfront structures like piers, docks and boathouses and is authorized to issue Corps approval for such structures.

The new procedure is designed to eliminate duplication of efforts by the two agencies as well as save time for the applicant, cutting the processing time from about three months to less than two weeks.

"We've used a permit program similar to this one in Mississippi for about a year now," said Clay Carter, who represented the Corps at the press conference, explaining that application to a third agency, the Bureau of Pollution Control, had already been trimmed from the process for obtaining a regional permit.

Pecans are such a part of Christmas in the South—and elsewhere—that I always include pecan delicacies in my Yuletide cooking for gift-giving—and I'd much rather stay at the stove than join the crush in the stores, anyway.

One of my favorites the year round, and the recipe for which I get the most requests at this time of the year, is:

PECAN CONFECTIONS
1 egg white
1 cup brown sugar
Dash of salt (about one-eighth tsp.)
1 level Tbsp. flour
1 cup chopped pecans
It's easy, easy. Beat the egg white (I use a wire whisk) to a stiff froth, then very gradually add the cup of brown sugar, mixed with the flour and salt. Fold in the cup of pecans, and drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets, and bake in a slow oven (300 to 350°, according to your oven.) Let cool before removing from cookie sheets. That's all there is to it, but oh, the taste.

Methodists marking Advent season on Sunday evenings

The congregation has adopted residents of the Dixie White House Nursing Home, and to this service members of the congregation will bring gifts which the residents have requested.

During the Communion service these gifts will be placed under the Christmas Tree. On Christmas Eve the gifts will be delivered.

Opening the Advent Season on Dec. 2 a service of the Christmas

Special Sunday evening services celebrating the Advent Season are being held at the First United Methodist Church of Pass Christian, beginning each Sunday at 7 p.m.

All who wish to attend are cordially invited, said Pastor Allen Dearing.

On Sunday, Dec. 9 the service will consist of an enactment of the Christmas story, accompanied by readings from the Scriptures and the singing of carols.

Costumed members of the congregation will represent persons in the story. Following the service an open house will be held at the parsonage.

With Reverend Dearing presiding, a candlelight worship service will mark the third Sunday, Dec. 16.

A communion and gifts service will be observed on the fourth Sunday, Dec. 23.

Tree was led by Kay Arcement and Malcolm Jones; readers, and by Reverend Dearing, questioner.

Slides and narrative explaining the signs and symbols of the Christian faith were interspersed with readings from the Bible and the singing of carols.

As the carols were sung, members of the congregation hung the Christmas symbols on the tree.

Concluding the service was the lighting of candles at the altar and in the windows and the lighting of the decorated Christmas Tree.

Georgann Salisbury, chairperson of age-level and family ministries, was in charge of the seasonal decorations. She was assisted by Emma Shows, Dolly Wilson, Kay Arcement, Grace Shaddix, Margie Scott, Mary Ross, Jay Wilson and George Archment.

With the Advent wreath and Advent candles as the focal point in the sanctuary, poinsettias, greens, pine cones, candles, red velvet bows and other seasonal decorations were used throughout the church.

Centrally placed in the narthex and in the fellowship hall are Nativity scenes.

Margaret Peterson, chairperson of the nurture and membership care work area, is overall chairperson and coordinator of the Advent observances.

PRIZE WINNER—Mrs. Dorothy Parr of BaySide Park Subdivision accepts a portable television set from Gordon (Speedy) Courge, vice president of the BaySide Volunteer Fire Department. Mrs. Parr was awarded the prize in connection with a recent fund-raising event conducted by the department.

This makes about two dozen small cookies. Be sure to leave space between the cookies when you bake them, as always when making drop cookies.

Sometimes I like to make these quite small, at other times larger. My son, Jack, prefers "burnt sugar" cookies, so I leave his in the oven a little longer to burn them a bit on the bottom side.

He and my other son, Bill, and the other members of the family, including daughter-in-law Sue and the six grandsons, also like these cookies made without the pecans at times—so you see, this is a very versatile recipe. This recipe doubles easily, but I find that if you mix up too many batches at once, it's a bit cumbersome.

Another delight at Yuletide, or any other time of the year is that old Creole Favorite:

PECAN GRALLE
(Grahly of Sugared Pecans)

1 cup sugar
½ cup water
2 cups of pecan halves
1 tsp. vanilla
Bring the sugar and water, lightly salted, to a slow boil. Cook until you can gather sugar threads to form a soft ball when dropped into a cup of water.

Add the pecan halves and vanilla, stirring rapidly until the pecans are coated with the sugar. Pour out onto waxed paper, let cool, and separate the pecan halves as they cool. Double or triple the recipe as needed.

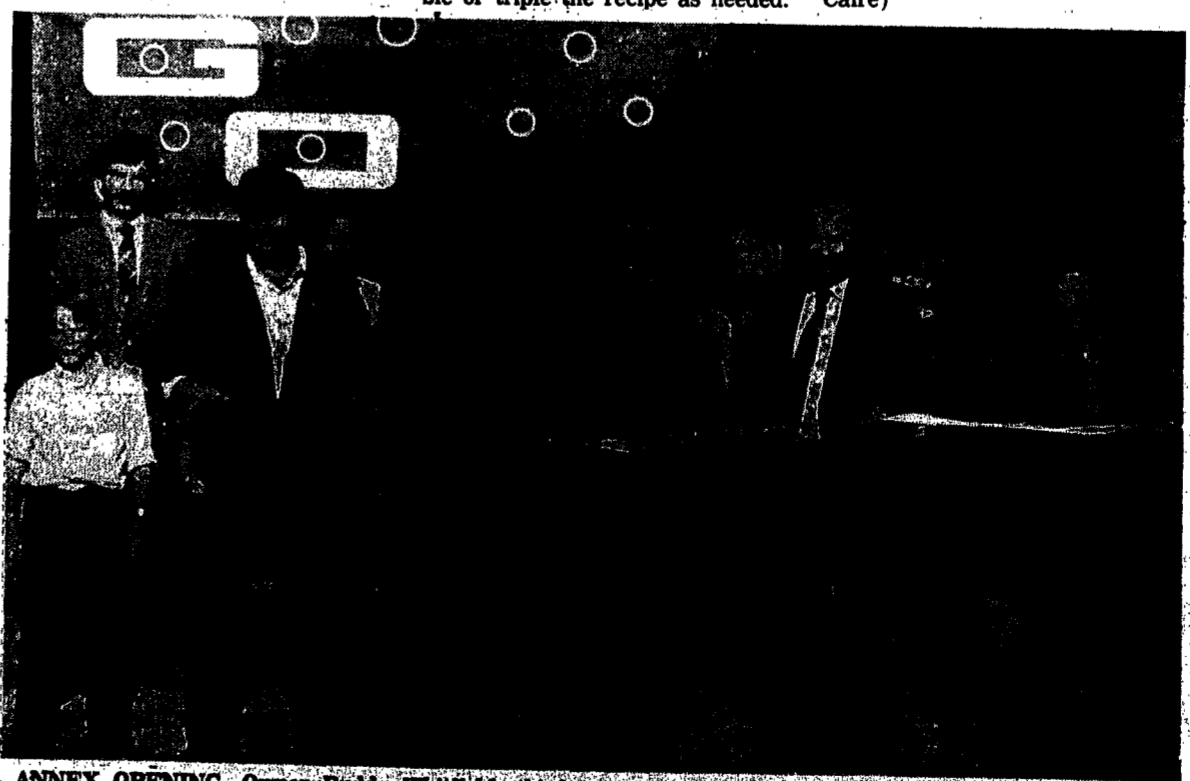

these keep well and make nice gifts, brightly boxed or in beribboned glass containers.

And there's another favorite of mine:

TOASTED PECANS OR DEVILED PECANS

Just melt a stick of margarine in a skillet, and add 4 cups of pecan halves, four tablespoons of Worcestershire sauce, a half to a whole tablespoon of Tabasco and a tablespoon of garlic salt (optional). Mix well together, spread out in a large flat pan and toast for a half hour in a 350 degree oven, stirring about from time to time so that they'll be evenly toasted and seasoned. Drain well on paper towels.

Undefeated Pirates to host basketball invitational

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Four games into their season, the still undefeated Pass Christian Pirates are hosting an invitational tournament this week.

The single elimination tournament began Dec. 5 and will finish with the boys' game.

Boys' teams to be playing include Pass Christian, Hancock North Central, Stanislaus, Bay High, Long Beach, Vancleave and Pearl River Central. The girls' lineup is the same, excluding Stanislaus.

The HNC Hawks will play tonight, Dec. 6 in second round play. The Lady Hawks will begin the play at 6:30 against Pearl River Central and the boys' game will follow.

Four semi-final games are slated for Dec. 7.

In previous games, the Pirates have defeated East Central, Bay High, Vancleave and St. John.

With a 74-69 score, the Pirates took their fourth win of the season over the East Central Yellow Jackets Dec. 1.

The Pirates win came after a hard fought game, in which East Central had led most of the time.

Pirate Coach said John Dedeaux's three-point play with less than three minutes to play gave us the first lead since early in the game.

"I think we were real fortunate to get away from East Central with a win," he said. "East Central is a much improved ballclub and they are well coached."

Hudson said he believes the key to the Pirate win was a lot of help from reserve players.

"Mark Boyd and Otis Gates did a real fine job of running the team while the starters were on the bench," he added.

Now the players know that they have to be ready and play hard every night or it's going to be tough, Hudson said.

The final score was 74-69.

For their third win, the Pirates recorded a hard fought battle over the Bay High School Tigers.

The Pirates were down by three at the end of the first quarter but outscored the Tigers in the second quarter by 10 points to take a seven-point lead to the lockerroom at the half.

The Tigers came out and closed the lead to five points in the third quarter and to two points in the fourth quarter before a Pirate rally.

In the rally the Pirates scored 10 consecutive points and took control of the game.

The Pirates placed three players in double figures. Joe Hatcher led all scorers with 27 points. Joe Brown collected 15 points and John Dedeaux chipped in 14.

Dexter Bell lead Bay High with 16, Martin Elzy had 13, Andre Daniels had 12 and Jeffrey Smith ended with 11.

On Nov. 27 the Pass High Pirates improved their record to 2-0 as they defeated the Vancleave Bulldogs 83-61 at Pass High.

"Coming into the game we were worried about the overall size of Vancleave," Hudson said. "As it turned out, the team's quickness was the key to winning the game."

The players did a good job of running the ball down the court, he said.

Four Pirates were in double figures. Joe Brown 2, Joe Hatcher 18, John Dedeaux 16 and Vernon Harrison with 12.

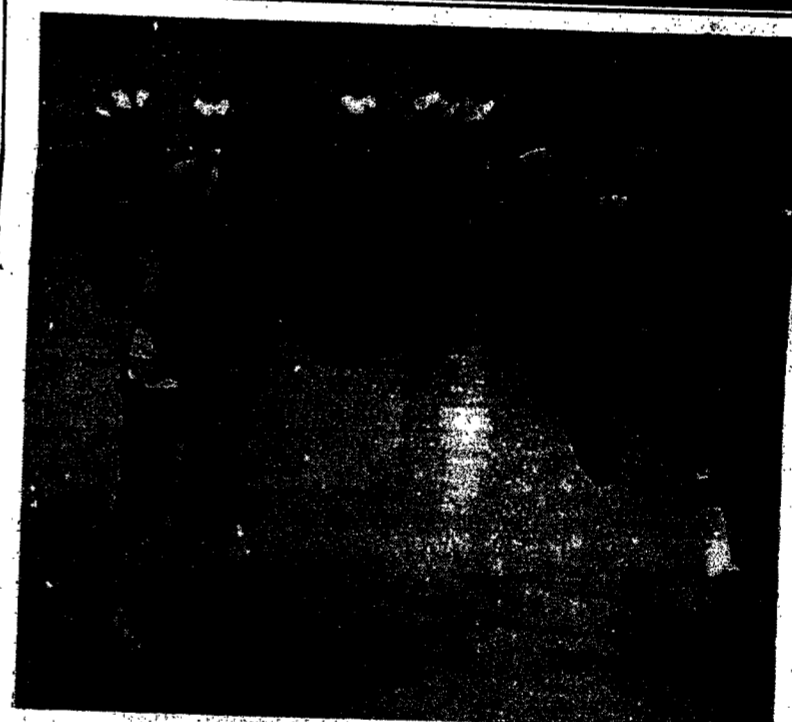

Vancleave was led by Le Aurthur Joseph with 17, La Ron Joseph with 13 and Naverette Reddix with 10.

Pass Christian raced to a 84-45 season opening victory over St. John Nov. 20.

The Pirates were out front by eight points at halftime and outscored the Eagles 30 to 9 in the third quarter to put the game away.

Pass placed five players in double figures. Junior Joel Hatcher led the Pirates with 20 points. He was followed by Joe Brown 16, Vernon Harrison 14, Charlie Barnes 14 and John Dedeaux with 10.

Scott Mallette was the only St. John player in double figures with 10.

SSC's MATT ROSETTI (14) attempts to out-manuever HNC's David Malley (42) when the Rocks took a recent 48-46 overtime victory over the Hawks at Brother Peter Gym on St. Stanislaus' Bay St. Louis campus.

PRC sophomore scorching nets

Pearl River College sophomore Carl Firven scorched the nets for the Wildcats this past week.

At Panama City the 6'5" New Orleans product tossed in 27. At Southwest on Monday night the John Elbert High graduate tallied 29 including a last second clutch shot to send the game into overtime. And this past Thursday the PRC star scored a school record 45 points to lead the 'Cats to an easy win over Meridian.

Against Meridian Firven connected on 17 field goals and hit 11 of 13 free throws to lead the 'Cats to a 104-50 decision. Forward Donald Dunston added 21 points, while hitting on 13 of 13 free throws.

Against Southwest the Wildcats blew a 12 point second half advantage to win in overtime 63-61. With six seconds left the 'Cats took the ball down, after a missed free throw and Firven hit a base line shot as the horn sounded. Firven scored six points in the overtime session.

The Wildcats, led by coach Lawrence Smith, were to play East Central on Monday night at Decatur.

The Wildcats will host the PRC Christmas Classic Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Coliseum.

Fun & Fitness

Usually more baking is done during the month of December than during the rest of the year. Treats that we may have eaten at an occasional birthday party become everyday fare during the holidays. These can account for more extra calories per day, which can create an excess of weight added to your frame by New Year's Day.

The family baker makes desserts for several reasons — for enjoyment or as a creative outlet. Often times the baker feels that the product is more economical than one that could be purchased. Many cooks nurture their families with baked goods, while at times they delight in the compliments and attention they receive after such an offering. Most do agree that the delicious products were not as plentiful.

In order to prevent a burdensome weight gain, the needs mentioned in the previous paragraph must be fulfilled in other, festive ways. When looking at the choices, remember that the solutions must be satisfactory to both the baker and the consumers.

If baking is a release for your creative nature, consider the destructive force on your family's eating habits, and the almost certain weight gain. What other talents do you have? Perhaps you do sewing, needlework, woodworking, design cards, or if you don't, you may want to start. Art and craft stores offer numerous possibilities at this time of year. You can make these for gifts or have the whole family participate in the projects.

One may also receive or give attention and compliments through working together with friends or family. Spend the time that you may have taken to bake on playing a game, reading aloud, designing a bulletin board, or performing as a musical group. Activities such as these will have a far more positive long-term effect than a pumpkin pie.

The family baker may desire to nurture with goodies, but let's remember that nurturing implies making someone healthier and stronger. Food is not such a bad way to accomplish socially, and spiritually, while food serves us best physically.

Rhodes, Arcement lead Lady Wildcat scoring

The Pearl River College women cagers celebrated their first home appearance of the season with wins of 72-68 against Meridian on Thursday and 80-49 against LSU-Alexandria on Saturday.

Couple these two wins with a 55-40 loss against Southwest on Monday and the Lady Wildcats now have a very nice 3-2 ledger.

Meridian jumped to a 28-21 lead at the end of the first half but Pearl River fought back to take control in the second half.

"We played real shaky in the first half," Ned Eades, PRC coach said.

"It was the first time the players' parents had seen them this year. But we settled down in the second half. Erica Cooper's inside play, along with good play from Deborah Powell and Terrie Rhodes, brought us back."

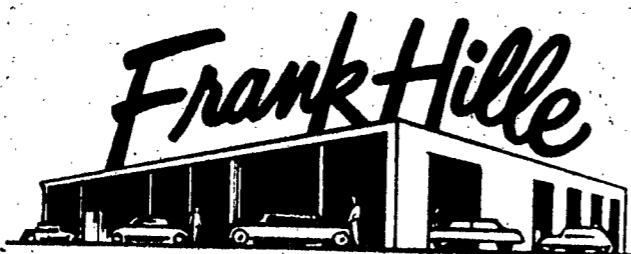

Betsy Arcement led Pearl River in scoring with 16 points, Arlisa Silas tallied 14, and Cooper and Carolyn Little each scored 12. For Meridian, Diane Clayton scored 24 points.

In a single game at the PRC Coliseum Saturday, the Lady 'Cats had no problem handling the Lady Tigers from LSU-A for the second time this season. The PRC girls led 34-20 at half and then coasted to a final 80-49 decision.

PRC placed five players in double figures with Terrie Rhodes, Bay St. Louis, scoring 14; Carolyn Little, Picaune, 14; Erica Cooper, Hattiesburg, 13; Regina Thompson, Purvis 11; and Ann Caines, Sumrall, 10.

The Lady Wildcats were to wrap up the 1984 part of the '84-85 season against East Central on Monday night at Decatur, Ned Eades is the coach of the Lady Wildcats.

Matters of Health

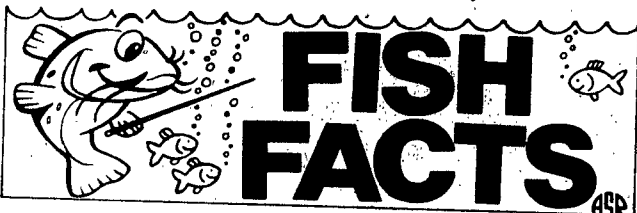

FIREARMS SAFETY

Each year, primary care physicians in Mississippi and around the nation have the unfortunate experience of caring for victims of accidental firearms injuries. In most cases, adherence to basic rules of firearms safety would have prevented the injury or saved a life.

First and foremost, every gun must be handled at all times as if it were loaded and ready to fire. Never should anyone take the word of another person on this point.

Hunting accidents in which the victim is mistaken for game are never excusable. No game animal can be a legitimate target unless it can be clearly distinguished as to species. Obviously, the practice of shooting at an object moving in heavy cover before it can be identified is never justified.

The holidays are a wonderful time for fancy foods with marvelous sauces and heavy desserts, but thank goodness it only comes once a year.

If you have added a few extra pounds and are contemplating a weight loss program, be sure to add tasty steamed and baked catfish to your New Year's diet. An ounce of cooked catfish is only 30 calories and a good source of protein.

Current laws which require the wearing of blaze orange during big game seasons have almost eliminated accidents in which hunters are mistaken for game animals. Many experts favor extending these laws to cover all firearms seasons.

Younger shooters should have a rigid course of instruction in safe firearms handling. If parents cannot provide this training, they should call on other individuals and organizations to see that this is done. Local sports organizations can frequently help with safety instruction.

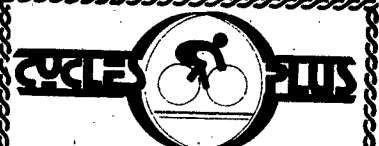

The practice of keeping loaded guns in automobiles or homes for protection has, in the opinion of most experts, cost many more lives than it has saved. All firearms should be unloaded and kept out of the reach of children, preferably under lock and key.

Accidents resulting from handling guns while under the influence of alcohol are all too common. This practice can be compared to drunk driving in its potential for tragedy.

Almost every shooting "accident" victim brought to emergency is the result of the disregard of one or more of the above rules for safe firearms handling.

This "Matter of Health" was prepared in cooperation with the physicians and staff at the University of Mississippi Medical Center and Doctors Ought to Care (DOC), a national organization committed to preventive medicine.

Santa Rosa facility to close until March

The Santa Rosa Day Use Facility of Gulf Islands National Seashore will close Monday, Dec. 17 for the winter season. It will reopen in March.

This National Seashore facility is located 10 miles east of Pensacola Beach and five miles west of Navarre Beach on Santa Rosa Island, Fla.

Many visitors actively use the facility during the spring and summer. There are picnic shelters, restrooms, showers, a snack shop and an exhibit room at the facility. In the summer, lifeguards are on duty. The buildings and boardwalks are accessible to disabled visitors.

The National Park Service designed this facility with protection of the sand dunes in mind. Boardwalks over the dunes provide convenient access from the parking lots, the shelters and main building to the Gulf beach.

River Choir sets Christmas concert

The Pearl River Junior College Choir will host its "Christmas Gift" concert Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Moody Hall Auditorium.

"The choir of 33 voices has a very good sound this year considering that they have been working together for only a couple of months," said George True of the PRC Music Department.

According to True, the program will be a mix of both the lighter and the more serious sides of Christmas.

The choir, along with ensemble groups, The Madrigals, the Girls' Sextet, and the Boys' Quartet, will perform such tunes as "Sleigh Ride," "Jingle Bell Rock" and "Jingle Bells" in the barber shop quartet style.

The PRC Choir performed recently at the World's Fair in New Orleans and has performed for civic groups around the Poplarville area. The choir also sang at the 1984 Pearl River College Homecoming banquet.

The concert is open to the public.

Students raise $500 for Muscular Dystrophy

GETTING READY—Andy Fouca, left, and Mike Morse help each other with their skates prior to a recent skate-a-thon to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Local students who participated in the event raised more than $500, according to Bay High DECA Coordinator Peggy Webb, who helped organize the skate-a-thon.

SKATE-A-THON—Four local students try a few whip-cracking tricks during a recent skate-a-thon at Twin Pines Roller Rink in Waveland. The event, which benefitted the Muscular Dystrophy Association, was sponsored by the Bay High DECA Club and Domino's Pizza.

MOST DONATIONS—Mike Blevins, a student at Bay St. Louis Junior High School, watches as Peggy Webb, Bay High DECA coordinator, and James LaGasse, Hancock County Chairman for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, count the pledges he has collected at a recent Muscular Dystrophy Skate-a-thon. Blevins raised $110, the most raised by an individual participant.

Health not limited to physical aspects, USM's Boyd says

A University of Southern Mississippi department chairman says the majority of health problems are preventable. The key is the action of the individual.

"In this state, people value their independence but don't know how to take care of themselves when it comes to self-sufficiency and staying well," said Rick Boyd, chairman of USM's Department of Health and Safety Education.

As the only health education program in Mississippi and one of the few in the South, Boyd said USM's program can improve the way of life for people in the state.

Health and safety education is different from physical education in that it looks at social, emotional, spiritual and intellectual health as well. Boyd said physical health is important but other aspects need to be considered also.

He explained, "There's more to it than not being sick." Physical, mental and emotional health interact. Many times a person who is healthy is healthy physically only.

"For example," he said, "a person who runs or jogs for his health may be physically healthy, but he may hate running and thus be dissatisfied socially."

"The health we as educators and physicians talk about is different. Physicians are trained to diagnose disease and treat it with medicine. A person has to be sick before they can help him. With health and safety education, a lifestyle, behavior-oriented subject, we want to prevent illness and increase the well-being of the person through good health habits," Boyd added.

The USM program educates through programs on mental wellness, sexuality, consumerism, nutrition, disease education, environment and substance abuse. The process involves helping individuals and groups examine their lifestyles, study choices of behaviors available to them, choose rationally, making alternatives and act upon choices of how they believe they should live.

"We're not in the medical field, but rather the psychological determinants of behavior based upon what a person knows and what he has learned through health and safety education," Boyd said.

"Health education seeks to utilize process values—helping the individual make a decision and live efficiently. We are not trying to be physicians. We just want to educate the public to the preventive types of lifestyles. What it comes down to is what you value in life. You know you have certain choices and each individual should be able to make an educated decision to prevent illness," he pointed out.

Boyd said he always introduces new students to the 1947 World Health Organization definition of health. It states that health is "a state of complete physical, mental, and social well-being and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity."

A strict code of ethics forms the philosophical basis for the USM health education program. The Society for Public Health Education (SOPHE) code, adopted in 1976, stresses such principles as non-discrimination, consent of individuals, privacy values, high competency and environments of growth, development and professionalism.

Since 1976 when a community health education major was established at USM, the department has had 47 graduates. The problem, Boyd feels, is that a lot of people do not know what the program involves. Most people believe that the program is synonymous with physical education.

Bachelor's and master's degrees in community health education are available from the department. Employment opportunities are available in the private sector, health care, government, and education. The American Cancer Association, the American Heart

Society and the Heart Association. Graduates can perform tasks such as screening for hypertension or determining nutritional and psychological assessments through an educational program for communities.

Boyd stressed that he doesn't want the program to be presented as the answer to every student's employment problems, but that the department would like to have enough majors that, when the jobs come open, they could fill them.

"It is an exciting field, determining the needs of a community and then providing them through educational means," Boyd said. It also is profitable to businesses as well as individuals.

B.B. AND LUCILLE—B.B. King and his guitar "Lucille" entertain an audience at the Mississippi State Penitentiary at Parchman in the special program, "B.B. at Parchman Prison," a production of Mississippi ETV, at 9 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 8.

Year of The Ocean seminars result in GCRL mini- courses

Gulf Coast Research Laboratory will offer a series of general interest non-credit mini-courses in marine science during 1985 at the J.L. Scott Marine Education Center in Biloxi.

The Laboratory is offering the courses in response to public interest generated by the successful Year of the Ocean public seminar series sponsored by GCRL which concluded in October.

Questionnaires were circulated throughout the community to determine which courses would be most popular with the public.

These courses are offered for the learning pleasure of adults and no prior knowledge of the subject matter is required.

Cost of each four-week course is $20 and GCRL is offering gift certificates for persons who would like to give a mini-course as a gift.

Registration will begin at the Marine Education Center on Dec. 15. Pre-registration is requested, but registrations will be accepted on the first night of class on a space-available basis.

Each class will be offered on a specified evening for four consecutive weeks from 7-9 p.m.

"Flora and Fauna of Mississippi's Barrier Islands," the first course of the series, will be held on Thursday nights beginning on Jan. 10 with Dr. Edwin Calk as the instructor.

Participants will learn about important and representative plant and animal communities, the effects of coastal barrier ecosystems on these communities, and how these ecosystems are affected by human activities.

Gerald Corcoran will teach a course on "Aquarium Set-Up and Maintenance" on Thursday nights beginning Feb. 7.

Basics of fresh-water and marine aquarium set-up, species selection, habitat construction and stocking will be covered.

Participants will learn the importance of chemical testing in aquarium maintenance and will be given hands-on experience in performing and interpreting chemical testing.

"Fishes of the Mississippi Sound" will cover taxonomy, life history and ecological importance of common fishes in the Mississippi Sound, including hands-on identification of various fishes. Dr. Tom McIlwair will teach the course on Tuesday nights beginning Feb. 5.

Dr. Irvin Otvos will be the instructor for "Geology and the Coast of Mississippi" to be offered on Wednesday evenings beginning Mar. 6. Participants will learn some of the basic principles of geology and will explore how geological processes have shaped the Mississippi Coast. Lectures will be reinforced by field activities.

Participants will gain an appreciation of the beauty, complexity and importance of animals living in tidal marshes, ocean bottoms and coral reefs in "Biology of the Sea Bottom" to be presented by Walter Brehm on Thursday nights starting on Mar. 7.

"Tides and Tidal Currents" will be taught by Charles Eleuterius on Tuesday evenings beginning Apr. 2. The course will explain what causes tides, their variations and the meaning of associated terminology. Participants will learn about tidal currents, how to use tide tables, interpret current roses and make crude predictions concerning local tides.

Judith Toups will be the instructor for Thursday evening classes beginning on Apr. 4 entitled, "Seabirds and Shorebirds of the Gulf Coast."

This study of resident and migratory birds will cover identification, habitat and ecological relationships and will include one field trip to practice identification techniques learned in class lectures.

"Invisible Biology of the Sea" will be the topic of Tuesday evening classes beginning on May 7. Jerry McLelland will teach the course which will explore the ecology of microscopic flora and fauna of the sea. Planktonic organisms, their relationships to the environment and to each other, marine food chains and economic importance will be discussed.

On June 6, Kenneth Drocco will begin a Thursday night course on "Coastal Meteorology" to introduce participants to this science, making an observation, current techniques and equipment, reading and understanding weather maps and weather patterns which affect the Gulf Coast will be included.

For further information, interested persons may call the Marine Education Center at 374-5550.

(Your Independent Insurance Agency Working for You)

There are two basic steps that you can take to determine if you have adequate insurance on your valuables:

- 1) Get an appraisal and know today's replacement value. For your protection, have valuables professionally appraised.
- 2) Know the limits on theft losses in your homeowners policy. Your homeowners policy covers all personal possessions. When there is a loss by theft, however, the amount of reimbursement on certain items is limited.

An inventory is vitally important after a loss. If there is a disaster tomorrow, would you remember each item lost? We have inventory booklets to help make the job easier. Come by our office for your free booklet—no obligation.

FOUNDER'S PORTRAIT—University of New Orleans Founding Chancellor and Chancellor Emeritus Homer L. Hitt, left, and UNO Chancellor Cooper R. Mackin, unveil an official photographic portrait of Dr. Hitt. The portrait, chosen by a special committee appointed by Dr. Mackin, will hang permanently in the Board of Supervisors Room of UNO's Administration Building. Dr. Hitt served as UNO's chief administrative officer since the University's inception in 1957 until his retirement in 1980. The portrait is by photographer George Rappel.

Treutel named to youth board

Susan Elizabeth Treutel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Treutel Sr. has been selected as representative for the 1984-85 "Seventeen" Magazine's Youth Advisory Board.

SUSAN TREUTEL

"Seventeen" requires that the representative be a young lady involved in school, community and fashion activities, and that she be of outstanding character and respected by her peers.

Treutel is a junior at Our Lady Academy. She has served on the Princess Shoppe Teen Board for two years and visited New York City with the Teen Board last spring. She is a St. Stanislaus varsity cheerleader and has in the past cheered for Our Lady Academy's varsity and St. Stanislaus' junior varsity teams.

For three years she was an instructor of Our Lady of The Gulf

Catholic Church's religion classes, and she is a member of Our Lady of The Gulf Parish. She was class officer during her sophomore year. Her hobbies include snow skiing, tennis, modeling and cheerleading.

As representative to Seventeen's Youth Advisory Board, Treutel's duties include corresponding with "Seventeen" and with other board representatives across the nation, sharing with them different civic projects that her local board has completed. She also becomes eligible to receive one of several scholarships awarded by "Seventeen" magazine.

LET ME THINK—Blaine Fountain has to think of the many gifts he is expecting from Santa for Christmas. Blaine was among some 200 boys and girls who gave Santa special orders on Sunday at the Courthouse. Santa arrived during a heavy rain storm via a fire truck with police escorts. ARRIVES FROM NORTH POLE—Santa took a short break from his workshop on Sunday to get special orders from boys and girls in Hancock County. Santa arrived with a bag full of candies for some 200 anxiously waiting children. He was given a ride on a fire truck with police escorts. The event was sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Legends of the season

There are many charming legends associated with the holiday season; one of the best-known is the legend of the Christmas rose.

According to the story, a young girl followed the shepherds to the stable in Bethlehem. Learning of the Christ Child's birth, she longed to go in and worship Him, but felt ashamed because she had no gift to offer Him.

Tears of disappointment fell from her eyes and as they touched the ground, a bush sprang up, bearing a beautiful white rose. Joyfully, the young girl picked the rose and took it in to lay before the Infant.

The legend of the Glastonbury thorn involves Joseph of Arimathea, who journeyed to Britain after the death of Christ. Coming to the town of Glastonbury, Joseph sat down to rest, thrusting his staff into the ground. It immediately took root and gave forth branches and green leaves. Every year after that, the thorn tree would bloom at Christmas.

Another legend tells of the poor shoemaker who lived on the edge of a village, near the woods. Each night he would place a candle in his window to guide travelers.

Miraculously, that candle light never wavered, inspiring others to place candles in their windows at Christmas time.

A beautiful legend explains the fir tree's association with Christmas. It seems that a young boy came knocking at the door of a forester's hut one stormy Christmas Eve. The forester's son gladly gave up his bed so that the exhausted child could sleep.

The next morning, the family heard angels singing and discovered that their guest had been transformed into the Christ Child. In gratitude for the family's hospitality, the Child broke off a branch from a fir tree and planted it in the ground, promising that it would always be green at Christmas time.

A Christmas gambol oft could cheer
A poor man's heart through half the year.

— Sir Walter Scott

THERE IS STILL TIME TO GIVE A PORTRAIT AS A CHRISTMAS GIFT.

These ornaments are fun to make and decorate!

Children love making ornaments at Christmas time — here's an easy recipe for bread dough ornaments that they can help make and then decorate:

Mix 4 cups of flour and 1 cup of salt in a bowl, using a wooden spoon or rubber spatula. Add 1½ cups of water slowly, mixing as you pour. You may need more water, depending on the humidity, but keep the dough stiff for best results.

Knead dough for 10 minutes; when texture is soft and smooth, it will be ready for cutting.

Have the youngsters shape the ornaments with cookie cutters, inserting hooks into the dough at this time.

Bake dough in a 325° to 350° oven and no hotter. The ornaments should be rigid when removed from the oven.

Allow them to cool and let the kids take over, decorating them with poster paint or tempera. They can also sprinkle them with cake decorations, using regular white glue.

To keep the finished ornaments looking pretty longer, spray them with an acrylic gloss; this will also give them a nice shine.

Hang the ornaments on the Christmas tree for all to admire, or have the youngsters give them as gifts.

Footprints in the sand

One night I had a dream. I was walking along the beach with the Lord, and across the skies flashed scenes from my life.

In each scene, I noticed two sets of footprints in the sand. One was mine, and one was the Lord's.

When the last scene of my life appeared before me, I looked back at the footprints in the sand, and, to my surprise, I noticed that many times along the path of my life there was only one set of footprints. And I noticed that it was at the lowest and saddest times of my life.

I asked the Lord about it: "Lord, you said that once I decided to follow you, you would walk with me all the way. But I notice that during the most troublesome times in my life, there is only one set of footprints. I don't understand why you left my side when I needed you most."

The Lord said: "My precious child, I never left you during your time of trial. Where you see only one set of footprints, I was carrying you."

Holiday plants enhance season

Many plants are synonymous with Christmas. Probably the earliest association is that of frankincense and myrrh. The Boswellia carterii, the tree from which frankincense is extracted, is related to the turpentine or terebinth tree. It has star-shaped flowers and its aromatic resin can be made into incense. At one time frankincense was considered to be as precious as gold. Thus, the gift of frankincense to the Christ Child was indeed a special one.

The commiphora myrrha is an unlikely-looking plant to be associated with the holiday season. But, it was from this shrub — bearing sharp, ugly thorns — that the Magi's gift of myrrh was obtained.

Christians aren't the only ones who've decked their halls with boughs of holly; the ancient Druids started this custom. Believing that sylvan spirits dwelled within the holly, the Druids sought to protect the spirits from frost and wintry winds, by bringing the plants indoors.

The early Romans sent branches of holly to friends and neighbors during the Saturnalia festival, which was celebrated in December. Missionaries combined such pagan customs with those of Christianity during the 7th century. Thus, holly came to be a symbol of Moses' burning bush, and its prickly points and red berries reminded the faithful of the crown of thorns that awaited the Christ Child.

Mistletoe was well-known to the Druids by the name of all-heal. Later, Christians would use mistletoe as a symbol of Christ, the Divine Healer. The Druids also used mistletoe as a symbol of peace and goodwill. Enemies would embrace under the plant, which is how our custom of kissing under the mistletoe originated.

Perhaps no plant is as synonymous with Christmas as the poinsettia. Brought back from Mexico by Dr. Joel Poinsett during the 19th century, the plant flourished here in the United States. Today, it is a popular decoration in churches and homes during the holiday season. Its red bracts resemble the star of Bethlehem, which is probably why Mexicans call it the flower of the Holy Night.

Modern life styles may dictate changes in holiday traditions

By Nelda Starks

Holidays are special days meant to be celebrated with family and friends. Most Mississippi families have traditional foods or festivities they associate with each holiday.

The tradition might be a family tree trimming or a family feast at Thanksgiving.

Most families leave the major responsibilities for planning and preparing for holidays to one person. This generally means that particular person has another holiday tradition: too much to do in too little time.

The Joe Green family recognized this problem with holidays and began to set some new traditions. Some real Mississippi families might benefit from the Green family experience this year.

Let's look at what happens at the Joe Greens' as they anticipate Christmas 1984.

Kelly Green, Joe's wife, once tried to carry on all the traditions of her childhood plus those of Joe's family.

This meant baking fruitcakes, dozens of cookies, candies and gingerbread house, hosting an open house for friends during Christmas week, a thorough house cleaning to get ready for overnight guests, attending school and church concerts involving their children Maureen and Lester, gift shopping, cleaning the good china and silver and shopping for and preparing Christmas dinner.

All this on top of her regular work left Kelly too tired to enjoy the holidays. Instead, she began to dread them and to count the days until Christmas was over.

Things Have Changed

Things have changed at the Green home! The family decided as a group to leave out some traditional holiday activities and to change others.

Joe and Kelly aren't as active as they once were and are generally on weight control diets.

All the special holiday foods made this situation especially difficult.

To help solve their problem, Kelly has replaced her fruitcake with fruit or vegetable breads such as zucchini, cranberry-orange, peach and banana-blueberry.

These are lower in fat, sugar and calories; take less time and energy to prepare; and are less expensive than fruitcake.

Kelly can make the breads from scratch, save time using a homemade mix prepared weeks ahead or buy commercial mixes. The breads freeze well, so Kelly can do the work in September or October of each year.

The Greens are cutting calories in other ways, too. Joe has replaced the sour cream in the party dip served at the open house with low-fat yogurt.

He also has plenty of fresh and marinated vegetables on hand in addition to the usual chips and crackers. The rich creamy eggnog has been replaced by a fruit juice based punch.

Cut Cookie Ration

Kelly has cut down the number and kind of holiday cookies baked. She substituted margarine for the butter in the recipe to cut costs. She lets the children help roll and cut out their favorite sugar cookies, but instead of decorating with colored icing, brightly colored sugar is sprinkled on the cookies before baking.

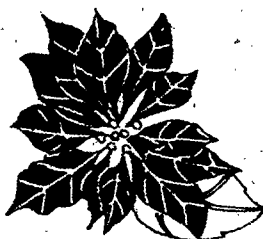

The children also paint the cookies. They add enough food coloring to an egg yolk to make a vivid color. Then using clean paint brushes, the children decorate the tops of the cookies before baking.

Kelly used to make other cookies in special shapes and colors for the holidays, too. Now she may make two or three batches of bar cookies to freeze ahead. These are dusted with powdered sugar rather than iced.

Because the entire recipe bakes at one time, Kelly saves energy and time. She chooses recipes like oatmeal-molasses bars or pumpkin bars rather than brownies because they contain more vitamins and minerals.

A small ceramic nativity set has replaced the gingerbread house. This initial cost was fairly great, but it can be used and added to for many years.

Food planning for the holidays at the Green home has helped to insure that the total family will eat well and nutritiously, and that Kelly will be able to enjoy the holidays as well.
